AUDIT TYPE:

Announced Audit

AUDIT SCOPE:

Review of a conventional radish growing operation. The growing area audited includes approximately 144 acres in production with overhead irrigation with water from the Gun River used. The growing season typically runs from May through October, with two or three planting cycles per year. Water for spray mixing is sourced from offsite well at a central farm base. A crew of eight workers is used for the grower's various operations, with two of those workers (tillage) present during the audit inspection. Adjacent land use includes wooded/undeveloped, other agricultural production, the Gun River, and rural residence.
